VOLUME CIX.--NO. 105 ALEXANDRIA, VA., TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1908. PRICE 2 CENTS

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and, through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

WOULD ENTER CATHOLIC CHURCH.

A dispatch from Philadelphia says that urgent appeals being made by Rev. James Paul Francis, the head of a celebrated order of Episcopal ministers, with headquarters in New York State, to bring about the establishment of a uniat church as a branch of the Roman Catholic Church are the latest developments of the "open pulpit" decree.

Rev. Dr Francis, it is learned, has been carrying on negotiations with Apostolic Delegate Falconio through several Catholic priests in Philadelphia.

On behalf of his own order and married ministers of the Episcopal Church throughout the country, Rev. Father Francis has sought terms of Rome whereby they might all enter the Catholic Church, maintaining a separate branch, to be known as the Uniat Church.

"What we would like to have," said Rev. Father Francis in substance, "is a branch similar to the Greek Church in which the masses are said in English and in which the priests are permitted to be married."

This request for a uniat church was not made by Rev. Father Francis for the convenience of his order, as it is a celibate organization. His desire was to have a church established in conjunction with the Catholic body so as to permit Episcopal ministers who disbelieve in the "open pulpit" canon and yet are married to enter the Catholic Church.

While it is not known that any decision has as yet been given to Rev. Father Francis, it was said by an authoritative source that the Pope would not consider such a proposal, as it is against all the principles of Catholicity. The Greek Church is an exceptional case, as it is allowed to exist as an adjunct to the Catholic Church because it has maintained orders through a logical line of succession.

When Father Francis learned of this decision and the reasons for it there is reason for believing that he and the three lay brothers who conduct the affairs of the order will announce their decision to join the Franciscan Order of the Catholic Church, upon which their own order was modeled.

While Dr. McGarvey, rector of St. Elizabeth's Church, and his assistants, Rev. M. L. Cowl, Rev. W. L. Hayward and Rev. William H. McClellan, who resigned Sunday, have refrained from openly announcing that they intended to enter the Catholic Church, they may do so.

THAW IN JAIL.

Justice Morschauser, of the Supreme Court, of Duchess county, N. Y., sitting at Poughkeepsie yesterday in the hearing granted to the writ of habeas corpus brought with the purpose of freeing Harry K. Thaw from the Matteawan State Asylum for the Criminal Insane, decided that Thaw's side of the case should be entered in Poughkeepsie, and that the district attorney of New York county should have the privilege of bringing out the people's case in a court of New York county. Pending the completion of the case, Justice Morschauser ordered that Thaw shall not be taken back to the asylum, but shall be guarded in the Duchess county jail.

The decision of the justice came in the nature of a compromise, and after John E. Mack, district attorney of Duchess county, backed by Assistant District Attorney Francis H. Garvan, from Jerome's office, had entered a strong plea that Duchess county could never stand the expense of hiring experts, paying commissions to go to the four corners of the earth and settling the railroad fares and board bills of witnesses for the State. Justice Morschauser, while denying Mack's motion to remove the hearing of the suit to free Thaw to New York county, promptly shut down on James G. Graham, Thaw's new counsel in the habeas corpus proceedings, when he protested against splitting the proceedings in the case between two jurisdictions.

Thaw's delight at the turn affairs took in yesterday's initial hearing in his fight for freedom from the asylum was manifest. The imprisonment which he will suffer under the guardianship of Under Sheriff John M. Townsend in the county jail of Poughkeepsie will be of such a technical nature that even the leniency believed to have been shown him at Matteawan until a recent protest was said to have been registered by District Attorney Jerome will suffer by comparision.

ANOTHER FEUDIST KILLED.

Fate has again taken up the punishment of Breathitt county, Kentucky, assassins, the law having failed. Ed. Callahan, chief ally of the notorious Judge Jim Hargis, who was recently killed by his own son, was fatally stabbed yesterday at Crockettsville. Callahan's assailant was his brother-in-law, John Spicer. Following the wounding of Callahan, his son shot and killed Spicer. The shooting took place in Callahan's store.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1908

MR. CARTER, of Montana, yesterday introduced in the Senate and Mr. Clayton, of Alabama, in the House a memorial "in behalf of the architect of our federal constitution, Pelatiah Webster, of Philadelphia." The memorial is signed by Hannis Taylor, former minister to Spain, who says:

Herein is printed for the first time in 116 years the epoch-making paper published by Pelatiah Webster at Philadelphia, February 16, 1783, and there republished with notes in 1791, in which he announced to the world, as his invention, the entire plan of the existing constitution of the United States, worked out in detail, more than four years before the federal convention of 1787 met.

It will be a difficult task to make the people believe that any but Thomas Jefferson was the father of the Declaration of Independence.

A DISPATCH from Lisbon says that the government has decided not to prosecute those implicated in the assassination of the king and the crown prince, owing to the prominence of the persons involved. There could scarcely be a more significant revelation of the state of affairs in Portugal than that which is afforded in the announcement that the king—or his government—will abandon all prosecutions of those implicated in the plot for the assassination of his father and brother. When a son cannot bring to justice those who planned the murder of his father, and when a king cannot prosecute the conspirators who compassed the butchery of his predecessors on the throne, what better is Portugal than Servia?

BECAUSE he will not recall his publicly voiced belief that the story of the resurrection of Christ is only a fairy tale and the theory of the immaculate conception only true in relation to the divine life of Christ, the Rev. Robert Hamilton Cotton, Episcopal minister of St. Paul, Minn., for the last forty years, has been dismissed by his bishop, S. C. Edsall, charged with heresy. Dr. Cotton believes with Dr. Crapsey, who met with like treatment a short time ago. Reverends Cotton and Crapsey should have left their churches without having to be dismissed, for when they cease to believe in Christ they cease to be christians, and they were both pastors of christian churches.

DESPITE the fact that the Rev. Dr. R. W. MacCullough, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Middletown, N. Y., condemned progressive euchre playing for prizes as gambling, and called upon the police to arrest members if they persisted in carrying out their plans, the sewing club, composed of young society women of the city, held its euchre party Saturday afternoon. Nearly 400 women were present, and that the affair was a success, they say, was largely due to the advertising Pastor MacCullough gave it. Dr. MacCullough has resigned.

PROBABLY the heaviest death tax ever levied on a woman's estate was that paid not long ago on the property left by Mrs. Augustina Rylands, of London, England. Mrs. Rylands' estate was valued at about $17,500,000. The death and legacy duties amounted to about $2,750,000, the former being computed at the rate of 10 per cent. on the first million and 15 per cent. on the remainder.

MR ALFRED VANDERBILT'S coaching venture in England will cost him $10,000 and he expects to take in about $2,000 in fares. This causes the Philadelphia North American to remark that if the commodore had run his ferryboat on that plan Alfred wouldn't have any coach.

From Washington.

Washington, D. C., May 5.

The situation over financial measures under discussion has brought about the nearest approach to a division among the leaders of the House that has occurred this session. This was caused by the Payne amendment which provides for the issue during the next two years of a bond-secured "additional currency" in such amounts for such times, and under such conditions as the secretary of the treasury may deem wise after application for this currency by banks. Republican Floor Leader Payne made a speech along this line five months ago. The Fowler followers drafted a bill in accordance with Mr. Payne's ideas and presented it to him as a compromise, proposing to tack it on to the Fowler currency commission bill. Mr. Payne looked tenderly at his own legislative child and began to fondle it. Encouraged by this manifestation of paternal devotion, the Fowlerites went to Mr. Dalzell the sub-leader. He does not think that much of Mr. Payne's financial ability, but would not say so. He passed them up to Speaker Cannon. The speaker, who is alleged to be pledged to Senator Aldrich to pass the Aldrich bill, even if amended into the Vreeland bill, said just what he thought of the Payne-Fowler idea. Curtly, he declared he could not call off the conference, which meant that he did not propose to compromise, when he felt that he already had the victory; but he suggested that the Payne-Fowler measure be brought up in conference. After this announcement of the speaker's attitude, Mr. Payne, strange to say, seemed to lose all affection for his child. It is said, now, that he will not urge his ideas upon the conference, but will bow to the supporters of the Vreeland bill. The Vreeland bill provides for: The formation of national clearing-house associations, to issue on a geographical distribution scheme, as high as $750,000,000 of commercial currency, based on "any securities, including commercial paper" after approval by the secretary of the tressury, a tax of four per cent. per annum the first month this commercial currency is in circulation and an increase of one per cent. per month, until ten per cent. is levied; the retirement of the notes from circulation by redemption at the United States Treasury; the payment of interest at the rate of one per cent. per annum on deposits of money by the secretary of the treasury with the associations, as federal depositories. Developments in the last twenty-four hours indicate the probable approval of the Vreeland currency bill at the general conference of House republicans tonight. Despite the fact that he is not yet fully recovered, in accordance with an announcement made last week, he proceeded, immediately after the morning business had been disposed of, to deliver the last instalment of his argument.

Senator Warner talked until 2 o'clock at which time he announced his intention to conclude tomorrow. The unfinished agricultural appropriation bill was then taken up.

HOUSE.

On a point of personal privilege, Mr. Smith (republican, California), today took the floor to reply to a denunciation of him in resolutions recently adopted by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and received yesterday by every member of Congress. Smith offended the Chamber of Commerce by attacking the Owens river water project of Los Angeles. The resolutions charged Smith with making an unfair and untruthful statement of facts to the House and of hostile and malicious opposition to the forest service.

Mr. Smith said that some persons could not engage in an argument without resorting to personalities. The Californian explained that Los Angeles was not in his district, but was attempting to get its water from his district. He expressed his thanks to the many members, who, since the resolutions arrived, had expressed confidence in his integrity. He was loudly applauded.

Attempted housebreaking is the charge lodged against Dr. Robert Anderson by the police of Washington, who arrested the physician at the home of Mrs Sarah Bradshaw, 45 M street northwest, about 2 o'clock Sunday morning. A burglar's jimmy, with which the prisoner, according to the police, pried open the front doors of Mrs. Bradshaw's residence, was found where Anderson is said to have thrown it aside when arrested. Anderson, who is said to be a graduate of a local medical college, became familiar with the house by reason of his frequent visits as a physician. Dr. Anderson is fifty-one years old.

GRAFTERS REMOVED.

As a result of two men hiding in a cupboard in Baltimore and overhearing former Congressman Harry Welles Rusk and General Manager John L. Robertson, of the Maryland Paving Company, discussing a bribe of $1,500 which they testified went to commissioners for opening streets, J. Arthur Wickham and James H. Marine, Mayor J. Barry Mahool yesterday evening removed both Wickham and Marine from office.

Robertson did not get the contract, hence the exposure. Wickham and Marine deny that they got the money. Robertson said he paid it to Rusk, and Rusk says he paid it to the street commissioners.

The action of the mayor was preceded by the announcement by Rusk that he had resigned as chairman of the democratic city committee of Baltimore.

Mr. Rusk is one of the best-known politicians in Maryland. He has been chairman of the democratic city committee for about six years, and for several terms prior to 1895 he represented the Third Maryland district in Congress.

The mayor says criminal action will follow.

CORN CORNERED.

Corn soared to 70½ cents in Chicago, yesterday. This is the highest figure at which corn has sold in that market since John W. Gates, Daniel G. Reid, and others, who comprised what was known as the "tin-plate crowd," attempted to corner the market in 1902.

In July of that year the price was boosted to 88 cents, and the deal, while apparently successful, ended in wholesale court proceedings, because several of the big operators defaulted, asserting that the market had been manipulated to a fictitious level.

"Big Jim" Patten and W. H. Bartlett are the men behind the so-called "corn corner." They own practically all the cash corn in Chicago, having taken in and paid for nearly 4,000,000 bushels since May 1, and many of the bears who have sold for delivery that month are unable to fill their contracts.

The deal had its inception in the small crop raised last year and the unusually poor quality. By refusing to sell, the farmers are aiding the bulls in an advance of prices. Little corn is coming forward from the country, and Patten and his associates are in a position to dictate prices.

Their holdings are said to amount to 4,000,000 bushels, in actual deliverable grain.

The Poll Tax Case.

[Special Dispatch to the Alexandria Gazette.]

Richmond, May 5.—The Supreme Court will at Wytheville in June rehear the famous poll taxes case of Tazewell vs. Harmon, treasurer of Norfolk, and will give a more specified definition of what constitutes a "personal" payment of poll taxes as a qualification for voting.

Governor Swanson today appointed Ben D. White, of Princess Anne, judge of the Twenty-eighth circuit to succeed the late Judge Boykin.

Afghans Repulsed.

London, May 5.—Heavy losses attended yesterday's fighting between General Willcock's force and the Afghans whom he repulsed in an attempt to invade India by way of Khyber Pass, according to latest advices from Simla. The Asiatics, today's messages indicate, fought desperately to hold their ground, and were only driven across the border after an engagement continuing from dawn until after darkness, during which the British mowed them down with machine guns, volley after volley from the infantry and repeated cavalry charges.

Calcutta, May 5.—Upon the success with which the police meet in stamping out the southern Indian conspiracy against British rule will depend in great measure the fate of the Amir of Afghanistan. Though General Sir James Willcocks is still driving the Afghans back from the entrance to Khyber Pass he has not a sufficient force at his back to push far into the enemy's country.

Plans for the assassination of Lord Kitchener and other high civil and military officers were so cleverly arranged, if detailed confessions by several of the prisoners are to be credited, that their rescue from death seems almost miraculous.

Still more startling arrests than any yet made are expected within the next few days.

The Mikado's Cry for Mercy.

Canton, May 5.—Even their joy is almost swallowed by the amazement the commercial class feel at Japan's humble appeal to the Chinese merchants in the Mikado's realm to use their influence to persuade their countrymen at home to drop the anti-Japanese boycott. The desperate condition of finances among the islanders has been no secret in China, but that the Mikado should actually stoop to implore the Chinese expatriates in his realm to help him has fairly struck the boycotters dumb with astonishment. His virtual surrender is all the more noticeable in view of the high tone Japan has recently taken and the most open threats of violence if the Chinese did not cease their commercial warfare. Besides, the Japanese plea will probably do no good. The home-staying Chinese are unlikely to notice representations from their brethren abroad, and the latter are mostly either naturalized Japanese and, as such, without influence, or are pro-Chinese in their sympathies despite the losses they are suffering. The Mikado's cry for mercy was omitted through the various trade and commercial associations, but it is known to have been suggested by the government, which admits that its attempts at coercion have totally failed.

De Sagan Refused an Audience.

Rome, May 5.—The pope refused to received Prince Helie de Sagan in audience, knowing that the object of the request was to afford Helie an opportunity to beg a papal annulment of Mme. Anna Gould's marriage to Count Boni de Castellane. The pontiff said that he will never allow a priest to officiate at Mme. Gould's remarriage.

Prince Helie de Sagan and Mme Anna Gould have gone to Florence. Current rumor is that they have arranged to be married there by a civil and Protestant religious ceremony. Their departure from Rome is taken as making the couple's abandonment of all hope of a papal annulment of Mme. Gould's marriage to Count Boni de Castellane. Helie refused, before he departed, to reply to questions concerning rumors that he is about to become a Protestant that he may be able to marry Mme. Gould by a religious ceremony.

Suicide of George Kerr.

New York May 5.—Homeless, his money gone, deserted by the friends he had befriended in the days of his prosperity, "Happy George" Kerr, aged 65, ended the life which was becoming a burden to him today by jumping into Sheepshead Bay. Unless some of his former friends come to the front his body will go to Pottersfield. Before Brooklyn and New York consolidated "Happy George" Kerr was a sergeant on the Brooklyn police force. He was well off and spent money lavishly. Then fortune turned against him. His money was swept away, he lost his position, and later it seemed impossible for him to get work of any sort. But a few months ago a change came over the old man. He told acquaintances he was just beginning to realize how shabbily his former friends had treated him. He brooded over this, growing more and more dissatisfied until he determined to end his life.

Black Hand Threat.

East Orange, N. J., May 5.—Following a Black Hand threat to blow up the beautiful Hyde Park School here, owing to the failure to pay $500, the school is being conducted at the building today under guard of the entire police force of Orange, as well as a dozen private detectives who have been called in to assist in protecting the structure. With all the precautions, however, less than half of the 1,500 students that ordinarily attend the school are present today. Three weeks ago trouble started at the school when small articles began to disappear. Later the thefts became bolder and an investigation was started. Shortly afterwards Principal Dutcher received a letter, postmarked Paterson, N. J., demanding $500 under threat to destroy the school with a bomb. All efforts to run down the letter writer proved unavailing. Today the time limit fixed for paying the $500 expired and that is why the preparations were made to guard the building.

Fashionable Wedding.

Newport, R. I., May 5.—Scores of visitors from New York and other cities, as well as from several of the other resorts, are in attendance here today for the wedding of Miss Pauline French to Samuel Wagstaff, which occurs late this afternoon at St. John's Church. More than three hundred gifts were received by the young couple, including jewels, gold and silver articles and paintings valued at $300,000.

UGLY CHARGES.

It begins to look now as if the acrimonious fight at present being waged between C. C. Carlin, of Alexandria, and R. Lindsay Gordon, of Louisa, for the congressional nomination in the Eighth district, will involve someone in charges of fraud before these two doughty democrats finally settle their political difficulty.

Mr. Carlin now has the seat in Congress, as he was elected to succeed the late John F. Rixey over two competitors, Mr. Gordon and Judge Nicol.

Although it will be many months before the voters will have another chance to express their choice, the Louisa candidate has been in the fray for weeks, and he is moving heaven and earth to encompass the defeat of the Alexandria man.

He has openly charged that the Carlin forces won their last victory by the use of liquor, and, furthermore, he has challenged his opponent to meet him on the stump. Mr. Carlin announces that he will not leave his seat in Washington to engage in a debate. He thinks this would be neglect of official duty.

Furthermore, he denies that any liquor was used at his instance. The congressman, it should be understood, is directing his battle from afar, and the most aggressive of his lieutenants is Raleigh T. Green, editor of the Culpeper Exponent.

Mr. Green has proved himself no sluggard in taking care of the interests of his man. He has had an answer—and a hot answer at that—for every charge, and, moreover, he has given the Gordon contingent some extra things to think about.

Recently the editor accused the Louisa people of voting a negro in their last primary, and now he comes into the arena with still more serious allegations—the charge that between fifty and sixty men who were delinquent in the matter of poll taxes, voted in the Louisa primary when Gordon ran against Carlin.

Editor Green did not launch this serious allegation without first posting himself. He came to Richmond and made a careful study of the books in the State auditor's office. In this work he was assisted, as far as possible, by the auditor's clerks, though these, of course know nothing of the facts in the controversy.

As a result of the investigations here and in the Eighth district, Mr. Green now charges that between the elections of 1905 and 1907 the qualified vote in Louisa increased 56 per cent., the increase having taken place just before the last congressional primary, and that notwithstanding this, the clerk of the county turned into the State treasury for the six months ended September 1st the meager sum of $3 38 for delinquent poll taxes—in other words, the taxes of only two men with penalties attached.

Not satisfied with bringing this matter to the public view, the Culpeper editor now is investigating the deliquent tax list of Orange county while a representative of Mr. Gordon, according to a special received here Saturday, is doing the same things in the city of Alexandria.

Mr. Green apparently suspects that some forty or more delinquents have voted unlawfully in Orange, and one of the auditors' clerks at present is looking into this matter.

Just what may be inferred from the present situation, it is hard to say, but it looks as if somebody has been guilty either of fraud or of gross negligence.

So far as the Louisa books are concerned, it appears that the discrepancy actually does exist, though why it exists is not explained.

C. Lee Moore, the first clerk to the auditor, would express no opinion about the matter yesterday morning. He said that Mr. Green had been to Richmond, and that he had assisted him in gathering such data as he needed, but that he (Moore) did not know what the information indicated. The inference, however, in the case of Louisa county seems to be pretty plain. It yet remains to be seen what the investigation concerning Orange and Alexandria will reveal.

Mr. Green charges that some of the delinquents had failed to pay their taxes for two years back, while others were delinquent for only one year. He furnished the auditor with the name of every man he suspected and the records were consulted as to each one of these.

It may be that final explanations will clarify the whole matter, and show that only innocent mistakes have been made, but Mr. Carlin's friends appear to think that the discrepancies are most significant.

It would appear, too, that the explanations will have to come from the county clerks. It is these officials or deputies specially appointed by them—who have to collect the delinquent taxes. The law forbids treasurers to do this.

Just how it happens that a friend of Mr. Gordon (Morris Wampler) has gone to Alexandria to consult the books there is not fully explained. It may be, however, that the Louisa man purposes fighting the Carlin contingent with their own fire, and that he hopes to find just as many suspicious signs in Alexandria, as Editor Green claims to have unearthed in other sections of the district.

Indeed, it is not going too far to say that there are some who believe that discrepancies of the sort indicated might be found in all parts of the commonwealth, if an investigation were made.

It would seem, too, that proof of wilful crookedness in the directions indicated would bring the offenders fully within the scope of the criminal laws—not only the statutes touching the embezzlement of public funds, but of the election laws.

The daring way in which Editor Green has devoted the columns of his paper to the charges against the lieutenants of Mr. Gordon, would seem to indicate a great deal of confidence on his side, though most of the other papers in the district are standing neutral.

The Culpeper Exponent, week after week, hauls out more editorial artillery, which is supplemented by potent auxiliaries in the way of big headlines and cartoons.

One cartoon represented the lone Louisa negro voting in the primary.

Mr. Carlin also is out in a card in which he flatly denies that he authorized the use of liquor in his fight. He also printed a letter from John Sharp Williams, democratic floor leader of Congress, who asked the Virginia representative not to leave Congress unless called home by the most urgent business.

Even if the charge that somebody has been guilty of crookedness in Louisa is established, it does not follow, as a logical consequence, that Mr. Gordon, a most reputable man and a former member of the Constitutional Convention, knew anything about it.

But Mr. Carlin's friends say that Gordon has accused Carlin of being responsible for certain things that the Alexandria man's friends are charged with doing, and that the same process of reasoning, in the case of Louisa, would make Mr. Gordon responsible.

Mr. Carlin stands in with the regular organization, but Mr. Gordon does not understand the vernacular of the tribe.—[Richmond Journal.

Jerome Defies Court.

New York, May 5.—District Attorney Jerome today defied the Court of General Sessions and Judge Rosalsky and announced his intention of going to jail for contempt before he will make public the minutes of the August, 1906, and the November, 1907, grand juries. Yesterday Judge Rosalsky issued an order that these minutes be made public in order that they may be used against Jerome in the application now being heard by Referee Hand for his removal from office. They contain the records of the testimony before the grand jury of Thomas F. Ryan and his associates as to the traction situation, here and counsel for the petition who want Jerome ousted declared they indicate that certain financiers evaded the law and looted the Metropolitan Company. They also alleged Jerome protected these men because they contributed to his campaign fund. Franklin Pierce, the attorney who is pressing the charges against Jerome, announced that he would later go before Rosalsky and ask that the district attorney be adjusted in contempt.

Wife No. 1 His Nemesis.

Pittsburg, May 5.—Brent Hockman, of Edinburg, Va., was locked up here yesterday charged with bigamy and desertion from the army. While he and his new wife, Miss Helen Bertram, of Charleroi, were celebrating their wedding some days ago, at the home of that young woman, wife No. 1, formerly Miss Martha Leonard, of Pittsburg, appeared on the scene, and then proceeded to beat up everyone, including the bride and bridegroom. Wife No 1. was somewhat athletic, and she broke up the whole wedding breakfast party in a hurry. Hockman managed to escape without his hat. His wife had him arrested today and locked up, when it was found that he had also deserted from the United States army, after enlisting at Columbus, O.

New Jersey Republicans.

Trenton, N. J., May 5.—The republican State convention met here today.

The platform will endorse the administrations of President Roosevelt and Governor Fort and ask for a continuance of a protective tariff in whatever tariff revision may be necessary. The hope will be expressed that Governor Fort may be named for vice president. Former United States Senator Dryden, chairman of the convention, indirectly gave a boost to the Taft boom in referring to the ex-secretary as the most probable candidate. He also referred to the vice presidential boom for Governor Fort.

The bodies were found by neighbor early today.

KILLED HER DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Mary Taylor, wife of Charles F. Taylor, who lives about three miles west of Rockville, Md., and is employed on the farm of Thomas N. Bailey, near Hunting Hill, yesterday shot and instantly killed her five-year-old daughter Edna.

Mrs. Taylor was trying to remove the bullet from a small rifle with which her husband had, a few days ago, been shooting rats about the place, when in some way the weapon was discharged, the bullet entering the right temple of her child and passing out near the base of the brain. The little one was holding the five-months old baby, seated on the edge of a table, and in falling dragged the infant to the floor, injuring it slightly.

The accident occurred just before noon, while Mr. Taylor was in Rockville and Mrs. Taylor was alone for more than an hour with her two infants and the dead child before her husband returned.

THE SINKING OF THE TRENTON.

Large crowds of people remained on the river front all day yesterday watching Julius Wanner, a diver from Alexandria county, who made descents into the steamer Trenton which sank in front of her wharf last Sunday morning. It was nearly dark before the people left the wharves.

The diver is unable to find the body of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Maury Posey, who was drowned by the sinking of the steamer. He also reported that he had entered the saloon, but had found no bodies. There is now every reason to believe that the little boy was the only victim of the accident.

The diver during the afternoon brought up pocketbooks, grips, hand satchels, and suit cases, many of the pocketbooks containing money. Most of these belonged to the rescued women passengers, and were turned over to them.

A purse containing $47.85 and jewelry, belonging to Mrs. Posey, was turned over to Mr. F. S. Harper, as was also a purse belonging to Mrs. P. P. Williams, of Doncaster, Md., which contains $27.60 and a pair of eyeglasses.

The crew of the Washington harbor police boat came down in a launch during the afternoon and dragged with grapping hooks for the body of the drowned child.

Capt. Simmons, of this city, will attempt to raise the steamer, by means of two large scows, one being place on either side.

Coroner Nevitt, of Washington, yesterday telephoned the police to know whether or not Dr. Moore, of this city, would hold an investigation should the child's body be found. Dr. Moore announced that as soon as the body is found he will hold an inquest.

The sunken steamer has moved several yards from the place where she sank last Sunday morning. Her stern is now pointing to the northeast, and the submerged steamer is more of a menace to navigation now than ever. The position which she now occupies is directly in the track of the Norfolk steamers in reaching their wharf at the foot of Prince street.

A crowd began to gather on the wharves early this morning, and by the time the diver reached the wharf a large concourse of people had assembled.

The diver descended into the Trenton between ten and eleven o'clock and made further examination preparatory to the raising of the steamer. The scows and the appliances for this work were already at the dock.

A number of men in small boats were engaged in dragging for the body of the drowned child. Jere Gensmer and John Davis, who were in one of the boats, hooked a gingham dress which had been worn by a child and brought it to the surface.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the steamer had been partly raised, so that about half of the saloon was out of the water.

SAFETY DEVICE.

As a precaution against grade-crossing accidents the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Railway Company has established warning signal bells at all crossings on its line between this city and Washington over which trains run frequently and at close intervals throughout the day. Signals will also be placed on the crossings between Alexandria and Mount Vernon. The signal is an electric device so arranged that a clapper between two gongs on a high post is set in motion, striking the gongs as the train approaches the crossing from either direction. The signal starts ringing before the train reaches the crossing and gives drivers of teams warning to look out for the approproaching train.

A Willing Informer.

"What is the number?" repeated central.

"Violet Park, eight-seven-seven."

"Violet Park, eight-double-seven?"

"I reckon so."

"And what number do you want?"

"Elmdale, two-naught-four-seven."

"What is your name?"

"My name is John Henry Miggles. I live at 65 Blicken street, Violet Park. My house phone is Violet Park, eight-seven-seven or eight-double-seven, as you choose. I am married, have no children. We keep a dog and a cat and a perpetual palm and a Boston fern, and"—

"All that is unnecessary, sir. We merely"—

"And last summer we didn't have a bit of luck with our roses. I tried to have a little garden, too, but the neighbors' chickens got away with that. The house is green, with red gables. There is a cement walk from the street. I am forty years old. My wife is younger and looks it. We have a piano, keep a cook and an upstairs girl. Had the front bedroom papered last week, and I want"—

"Did you want Elmdale two-naught-four-seven?"

"Yes!" gasped Mr. Miggles.

"Well, the line is busy now. Shall I call you?"

But Mr. Miggles wrote a letter.—New Orleans Picayune.

Squaring the Circle.

There is a record of an attempted quadrature in Egypt 500 years before the exodus of the Jews, and, if we are to take Hone as an authority, the problem was solved by Hippocrates, the geometrician of Chios, nearly 500 years B. C. By some it is claimed that the efforts of Hippocrates were in the direction of converting a circle into a crescent because he had found that the area of a figure produced by drawing two perpendicular radii is exactly equal to the triangle formed by the line of conjunction. This last is the famous theorem of the "lunes of Hippocrates." The "Papyrus Rhind," the oldest mathematical book in the world, written by one Ahmes about 2,600 B. C., gives a rule for "squaring the circle." The rule given requires that the diameter of a circle shall be shortened by one-ninth and the square erected upon this shortened line. The early Babylonians also worked at this old mathematical problem, as is attested by several references in the Talmud.

The Only One.

Henry VIII. of England, being at one time at variance with Francis I. of France, decided to send an ambassador and to charge him with a very fierce and menacing message to this prince. He chose for this office an English bishop in whom he had great confidence and whom he believed would be the most proper person to carry out his design. His prelate, being informed of the nature of his mission and fearing for his life should he treat with Francis in the haughty manner his master desired, represented to the king the danger to which he was exposing him and begged not to be sent on this mission.

"Oh, never fear," said Henry. "If the king of France should kill you, I will have the head of every Frenchman I find in my kingdom."

"I believe you, sire," replied the bishop, "but permit me to assure you that of all the heads you will cut off there is not one of them that will fit on my body as well as my own!"

The Letter M.

The Hebrew name of M was Mem, water, and it is curious to note that the original form of this character in the most ancient manuscript is a waving line, which to the not too particular ancients represented water. By some philologists the letter M as used by the Phoenicians is supposed to have come from a picture representing the human face, the two down strokes representing the contour of the countenance, the V stroke signifying the nose, the two dots, long since disused, and a stroke beneath the V representing the eyes and the mouth. The old Phoenician form of the letter does indeed bear a comical sort of resemblance to the human face.

The Cure.

"You look glum," said the husband of one clever woman to the man who had married her companion.

"So would you if your wife studied geology and filled the house with stones until there wasn't a place left for you to sit."

"Don't worry about that," was the cheerful reply. "Turn your wife's thoughts to astronomy. That will suit her just as well, and she can't collect specimens."—Sketchy Bits.

Putting It Gently.

Mr. Henpeck—I hear that young Jones and his wife are not getting along very well. Mrs. Henpeck (authoritatively)—Jones should never have married when he did. He was too young to realize the step he was taking. Mr. Henpeck—Yes, I know, but I like the boy. We have many things in common.—Puck.

No Other Course Open.

"Now," said the physician, "you will have to eat plain food and not stay out late at night."

"Yes," replied the patient; "that is what I have been thinking ever since you sent in your bill."—Catholic News.

Satire.

Satire is a sort of glass wherein beholders do generally discover everybody's face but their own, which is the chief reason for that kind reception it meets with in the world.—Swift.

Rev. Ben's Dog.

"Talking about the intelligence of animals," said young Kanebiter, "why, I have a dog up at the farm that's simply wonderful."

"How so?" said Pitken.

"Why, you see, I was out shooting one day when I found a large, handsome dog lying on the ground moaning with pain. Some ruffian had shot it in the leg. I carried it home, bandaged the wound and finally cured the poor beast. Some months after that I was compelled to travel a lonely road after dark when suddenly Ponto, who accompanied me, growled warningly. The next moment a highwayman stepped out of the bushes and put a pistol to my head."

"Ah," cried the listener. "I see! Thereupon the grateful dog seized the robber by the throat."

"Not at all. The man robbed me easily enough—took watch, purse, everything."

"But Ponto?"

"Ran off as fast as his legs would carry him. That's the point—don't you see? Animal instinct—didn't want to get shot again." — Illustrated London News.

The Ferret and the Rat.

A correspondent of a London paper, commenting on the crusade against rats in Great Britain, says: "The real remedy against rats is the ferret, not the unhealthy ferret kept by the half starved rat catcher of the agricultural village, but the strong, healthy ferret bred on the ground floor of a well ventilated, commodious dog kennel and there kept on skimmilk, table refuse and small birds. Bedded with clean wheat straw, the ferret is one of the sweetest of animals, and the expert goes into the kennels and cheers them as though in a kennel of hounds, and they crawl about him harmlessly. The young bucks will run miles across the country with the expert, just like little terriers. With this healthy life they grow too big for hunting rats in barns or other buildings, but they can settle any rat in a wheat stack if put in before the rat has made a labyrinth inside the stack. The doe ferrets will rout the buildings, and they alone should be the chief instrument in the crusade. The rat is too cunning for guns, traps and other devices."

The Hundred Best Books.

"The fact is that there is no possibility of naming the hundred best books. The naming of them for any large general audience is quite impossible. All that is possible in such a connection is to state emphatically that there are very few books that are equally suitable to every kind of intellect," says Clement Shorter in his book of "Immortal Memories." "Temperament as well as intellectual endowment makes for so much in reading. Take, for example, the 'Imitation of Christ.' George Eliot, although not a Christian, found it soul satisfying. Thackeray, as I think a more robust intellect, found it well nigh as mischievous as did Eugene Sue. There are great books that can be read only by the few, but surely the very greatest appeal alike to the man of rich intellectual endowment and to the man to whom all processes of reasoning are incomprehensible."

Same, but More of It.

Sitting in a Broadway restaurant the other evening were two young women who had not met for four years. One of them had grown stout and the other had admitted that she wouldn't have recognized her old friend under ordinary circumstances. They sat silently looking at each other for a moment, when the heavyweight inquired:

"What are you thinking about?"

"I was just trying to see whether your expression is the same as it used to be," said her friend.

"Just the same," the girl with the avoirdupois declared. "Only more of it."—New York Globe.

An Irish Tale.

One day an Irishman, having put his hat upon a gate post by which he lay down to sleep, sprang up at midnight and, mistaking the object for an enemy, dealt it a desperate cut with his scythe. Perceiving his mistake, the man gave thanks to heaven that he had taken it off before lying down. "For," said he, "had my head been in that hat, 'tis ten to one I had laid it open with my scythe, and 'tis a dead man I would have been seein' meself at this minute!"—London Captain.

Not Far to Go.

The reporter hurried up to the scene of the accident. A workman engaged on some scaffolding had missed his footing and had fallen many feet into the street below. Then the reporter went off to interview the unfortunate man, who luckily had escaped with a very severe shaking and a few nasty bruises, and asked sympathetically:

"Did you have vertigo, my man?"

"Oh, no, sir; only about thirty-five feet. Quite far enough for me, though."—Pearson's.
